PREFACE

My first idea and incentive in compiling a history and genealogy of the Cook family was the desire to trace my own lineage. After I had amassed 178 years history of the family I decided to put it into book form for others to read and use as a reference.

The compilation of data for this book was made possible through those who had kept their family Bible records, newspaper clippings, pictures, and letters left by those deceased. Credit is also extended to those who gave their time and knowledge of their families without written data, also stories of tradition.

In my search for missing names and dates it soon became evident that nothing had ever been published on our branch of the Cook family. Therefore, it was necessary to look for church, county, State and Federal records for the missing pieces of this jig-saw puzzle. This research took me to individual homes for oral information and Bible records; also to churches, cemeteries, and courthouses throughout Maryland: Maryland Hall of Records, Maryland Historical Society, Pratt Library, Library of Congress and the National Archives in Washington, D. C. Many places were revisited time and time again. This research added valuable data in helping to verify or nullify my records and enabled me to make connection with various branches of the family.

If there is anyone tracing his ancestry to any member of this branch of the Cook family not mentioned herein, please write to the author. A revised issue will be published when completed.

All data have been compiled, type was set by hand, and printed by this writer. Additional copies may be purchased at a nominal price at 500 Fourth Street, Laurel, Md.

COOK HISTORY

(Data used herein are based on hearsay unless otherwise indicated)

In the rolling countryside of Carroll County, Md., just about one-half mile off the heavily traveled Liberty Road, you will find a small burial plot about 200 feet west of Washington Road, in a field opposite the first farmhouse—going north. From a distance its appearance is that of a small thicket, but here beneath the many tall saplings and honeysuckle-matted area rests the remains of our forefather, Andrew Cook.

Here, too, is his wife Elizabeth, several of their children claimed by death early in life, and the first wife of his son Henry—Margaret Ann. These graves, sparsely marked with rough field stones turned on end, give no indication as to who is who. A well-carved stone, broken in two and lying face up, bears the neatly inscribed epitaph: "Sacred to the memory of Louisa, the beloved wife of Edward B, Coleman, who departed this life Sept<sup>b</sup> 14th 1858 in the forty-first year of her age"—both unknown.

Surrounding this forgotten cemetery, which was last cleaned and fenced some 20 years ago by a number of local residents, was the 200-acre farm of Andrew Cook. It was here, according to an oldtimer, that the first tomatoes in Maryland were grown. It is said that this property, which was a part of the once famous "New Castle" grant, was won by gambling and lost in the same manner.

This property, when taken possession of, was in Baltimore County. It was taken into Carroll County when the county was originated in 1835. The largest portion, including the grave site, farmhouse and barns, is now owned by Raymond C. Heinz.

Still standing alone at the corner of Liberty and Washington Roads, now known as Dorsey Crossroads, is the original Andrew Cook home. The two-story white frame building, which was constructed on a loose stone foundation (indicating early construction), consisting of 22 rooms and as many fireplaces, was used as a home and wayside inn during the early 1800's. Spread out over several acres, the house, barns and corrals were used by livestock farmers for overnight accommodations on their way to and from the stockyards of Baltimore. This inn was also used as a stagecoach stop when the coaches ran between Baltimore and Frederick.

According to Mr. Cook's death notice, which reads in part: "Cook, Andrew, d 12 Nov 1844, aet 57, Old Defender" (MHS)—it is assumed that he was born in 1787. His birthplace, nationality, and parentage have not been established. Nothing has been found on his early life. One story has been told that he came from North Carolina and was of French nationality; another that he was German and from Pennsylvania. The latter is believed to be correct because the early settlers in this county were German-speaking people.

The earliest record of Andrew Cook's presence in Maryland was his enlistment in the War of 1812. He was taken into the service August 31, 1814, and served as a private in Capt. Henry Snowden's Co. C, Sixth Regiment Cavalry, Moore's Maryland Militia. He was discharged September 19, 1814 (NA).

On February 19, 1817, he married Elizabeth Carr. No information can be found on her parentage or birth. It is believed that she was born about 1789. Their marriage license, No. 685 (MHR), gives his name as Andrew Cooke. The added "e", which does not appear in other records, was evidently an error made by the court clerk.

Eleven children were born of this marriage. Their names, taken from Bible records, by age, are: Louiser, John H., Corrilla, Sophafier, Maryann, Elizer, Henry C., Elizabeth, George W., William H., and Lucinda. A condensed history on these children begins on page 6.

It has not been established whether the farm was given up before Andrew Cook's death or afterward. His wife and family did live in a smaller home on Washington Road, just beyond the burial ground. This home, believed to be a tenant residence of the original farm, was a 2-story frame building. Here Mrs. Cook spent her remaining days.

Under the Act of Assembly of Maryland, passed March 20, 1867, in accordance with Chapter 385, she applied for a widow's military pension. On warrant 1922, she received her first quarterly payment of $20, June 20, 1867. The last payment was made January 4, 1872 (MHR). The following receipt, taken as written, was submitted by Mrs. William S. Whitecotton of Baltimore, Md.

Baltimore Md 1867

The Treasurer of the State of Maryland

Will please pay to the order of Wm B Hill twenty dollars, being the first quarterly installment of State of Maryland Pension to which I am entitled under the act of assembly of March 20th 1867.

Mrs. Cook died about January 19, 1872. The following, submitted by Mrs. Whitecotton, was written by her grandfather, William Henry Cook. It is addressed to his sister, Mrs. John Ede.

All the grown children of Andrew and Elizabeth Cook, except John Hancock, married, and lived in the same vicinity in Carroll County. They and the children who spent their lives there, are buried at Brandenburg Methodist Church, Berrett, Howard Chapel, Popular Springs, Ebenezer Methodist Church, Winfield, and Springfield Methodist Church at Sykesville. A few of the descendants still live in or near Eldersburg, Berrett, Winfield, Woodbine, Popular Springs, and Mt. Airy. Some have moved into other States.

George W. Cook and his family were the first to leave Carroll County. They moved to Alberton (now Daniels), Md., and then into Baltimore. William H., with his family, made the same move some time later. Their descendants have spread into all sections of the city and into adjacent counties. A few have moved into other States.

A history on each of Andrew and Elizabeth Cook's children follows:

Cook History

LOUISER COOK was born on March 12, 1818. No record on this child has been found, so it is believed that she died early in life. She was probably the first buried in the family grave site on the farm.

JOHN HANCOCK COOK, a farmer, of Berrett, Md., was born on September 9, 1819. He lived 78 years at Berrett and never married.

On February 24, 1864, he enlisted in the Union Army, at Mt. Airy, Md., during the Civil War, for a period of 3 years. He was assigned to Company G, Third Regiment, Potomac Home Brigade, Maryland Volunteer Infantry, at Ellicotts Mills (now Ellicott City), Howard County, Md., February 28, 1864, as a private at $13 per month. After being stricken with a chronic disease, he was confined to an Army hospital at Harpers Ferry, W. Va. Like others who disliked their hospital treatment in those days, he left for home to get better care. When he was reported missing, a $30 reward was offered for his apprehension. He was picked up at Hoods Mill, Md. Someone evidently interceded, because of his illness, for he was restored to duty by order of Brigadier General Stevenson, in accordance with a letter received from Gov. Mar. W. H. Boyle, dated March 7, 1865, at Harpers Ferry. On April 13, 1865, he was mustered out at Buckhannon, W. Va. On November 1, 1890, at 71 years of age, he applied for a military pension, granted November 6, 1890, for disability and received $12 a month. (NA).

John evidently had very little education. On his application for a pension he signed the form with an "X". The paper was witnessed by his brother, Henry C. Cook, and a Wesley Day.

He died in February 1897, and was buried in the cemetery adjoining the Brandenburg Methodist Church at Berrett.

CORRILLA COOK was born September 2, 1821. She married James Brice, Jr., September 14, 1843 (WCH). They had 10 children and lived on their farm near Winfield, Md. She died June 5, 1900. Her husband was born in 1816 and died December 6, 1891. They were both buried at Ebenezer Methodist Church at Winfield.

SOPHAFFIER COOK was born February 7, 1824. It is said that she died young and was buried in the family plot.

MARYANN COOK was born November 16, 1825. It is believed that she died early in life and was buried in the family burial plot.

ELIZER COOK, of Baltimore, Md., was born on June 11, 1828. She made her home with her brother William after her mother's death. Elizer (better known as Eliza), who never married, died July 29, 1919, and was buried in the cemetery adjoining St. Mary's Episcopal Church on Roland Avenue, Baltimore, Md.

HENRY CLAY COOK, a farmer, of Berrett, Md., was born on August 7, 1830. He owned a large farm near Berrett and was prominent in the county. He was connected with the Office of the Provost Marshal during the Civil War.

He married Margaret Ann Fisher, April 7, 1853. Her parentage is unknown. She was born February 20, 1835. They had 6 children. She died July 17, 1866, and was buried on the Andrew Cook farm.

On March 19, 1867, he married Lucinda Browning Hyatt, widow of John Hyatt who was killed in the Civil War. She was born October 8, 1843. One child was born of her first marriage and 6 children by Henry Cook. She died April 15, 1911, and was buried at Brandenburg Methodist Church in Berrett.

Mr. Cook died September 25, 1914, and was buried beside Lucinda.

ELIZABETH COOK was born on June 18, 1833. There are no records on her, so it is believed that she died in infancy and was buried in the cemetery on the old Cook farm.

GEORGE WASHINGTON COOK, of Baltimore, Md., a farmer and park policeman, was born on September 12, 1835. He owned a farm in Carroll County where he raised a family previous to moving to Baltimore.

On December 20, 1858, he married Margaret Dixon. She was the daughter of George and Eleanor (Grimes) Dixon of near Frederick, Md. They were married at the home of her parents by the Rev. L. Waters of the Methodist Church. Her parents were witnesses for the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. George W. Cook had 11 children. She was born November 3, 1836, and died in April 1903.

Mr. Cook died in June 1907 and was buried beside his wife in the cemetery of St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Baltimore, Md.

WILLIAM HENRY COOK, of Baltimore, Md., a park policeman, was born July 8, 1840. He was referred to as "Tip."

He married Adaline Matilda Bortle, of Granite, Md., in the year

1872. She was born November 2, 1851 and died September 16, 1923. He moved to Alberton (now Daniels), Md., to Ellicott City, Md., and then to Baltimore where he was employed at Druid Hill Park.

On March 9, 1862, he enlisted and was mustered into the Civil War. He was sworn in at Pikesville, Md., for a period of 3 years. Here he was assigned to Company K, Purnell Legion, Maryland Infantry, as a private. On August 7, 1862, he was reported as a deserter. He returned to his company, at Loudon Heights, October 6, 1862, forfeiting all arrears. October 1, 1863, he was promoted to corporal. He was reported as missing in action August 21, 1864, and was captured by the enemy at Weldon R. R., Va., the same day. On August 22, he was confined as a prisoner of war at Richmond, Va. After being paroled, on October 8, 1864, at Varina, Va., he reported for duty at College Green Barracks, Md. on the 10th and sent to Camp Parole, Md., the 11th. He was returned to his regiment December 16, 1864. On March 29, 1865, he was mustered out at Chapel Point, Md. (NA).

Mr. Cook died July 1, 1904, and was buried beside his wife in the cemetery of St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Baltimore.

LUCINDA COOK, of Baltimore, Md., was born on November 15, 1842, near Berrett. She was the 11th and last child of Andrew and Elizabeth Cook. Her father died before her second birthday.

She married George R. Sawyer on August 10, 1865. The wedding was performed by Rev. Ladock M. Waters of the local Methodist Protestant Church. Their friends, Frederick Tilden and Mary M. Boon witnessed the ceremony. Mr. Sawyer, from the State of Maine, was born January 13, 1839 and died January 25, 1866. The Sawyers had one child.

On August 26, 1868, she married John Ede of Cornwall, England. Rev. William Osbourn of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Sykesville, performed the ceremony. Mr. Ede was born December 19, 1835, and died September 19, 1875. There were no children by this marriage.

Lucinda died March 10, 1926, and was buried with Mr. Ede at St. Mary's Episcopal Church in Baltimore.

COOK GENEALOGY

On the following pages the Cook Genealogy appears in condensed form. Any descendant of Andrew and Elizabeth Cook may be found.

This arrangement is laid out alphabetically and numerically. Starting with the first generation listed, the name Andrew Cook is preceded by the Roman numeral I. His children, beginning with the first, are numbered 1 to 11. Their children are inserted between the numbers and follow the lower case letters (a, b, c, etc.). Under each of these marriages their children will be in italic figures (1, 2, 3, etc.). From these children the next generation will follow in lower case italic letters (a, b, c, etc.). After these use the lower case letters in parentheses ((a), (b), (c), etc.).

Your family may be traced in the following manner:

I. Andrew Cook

9. George Washington Cook

c. Marshall Aquilla Cook

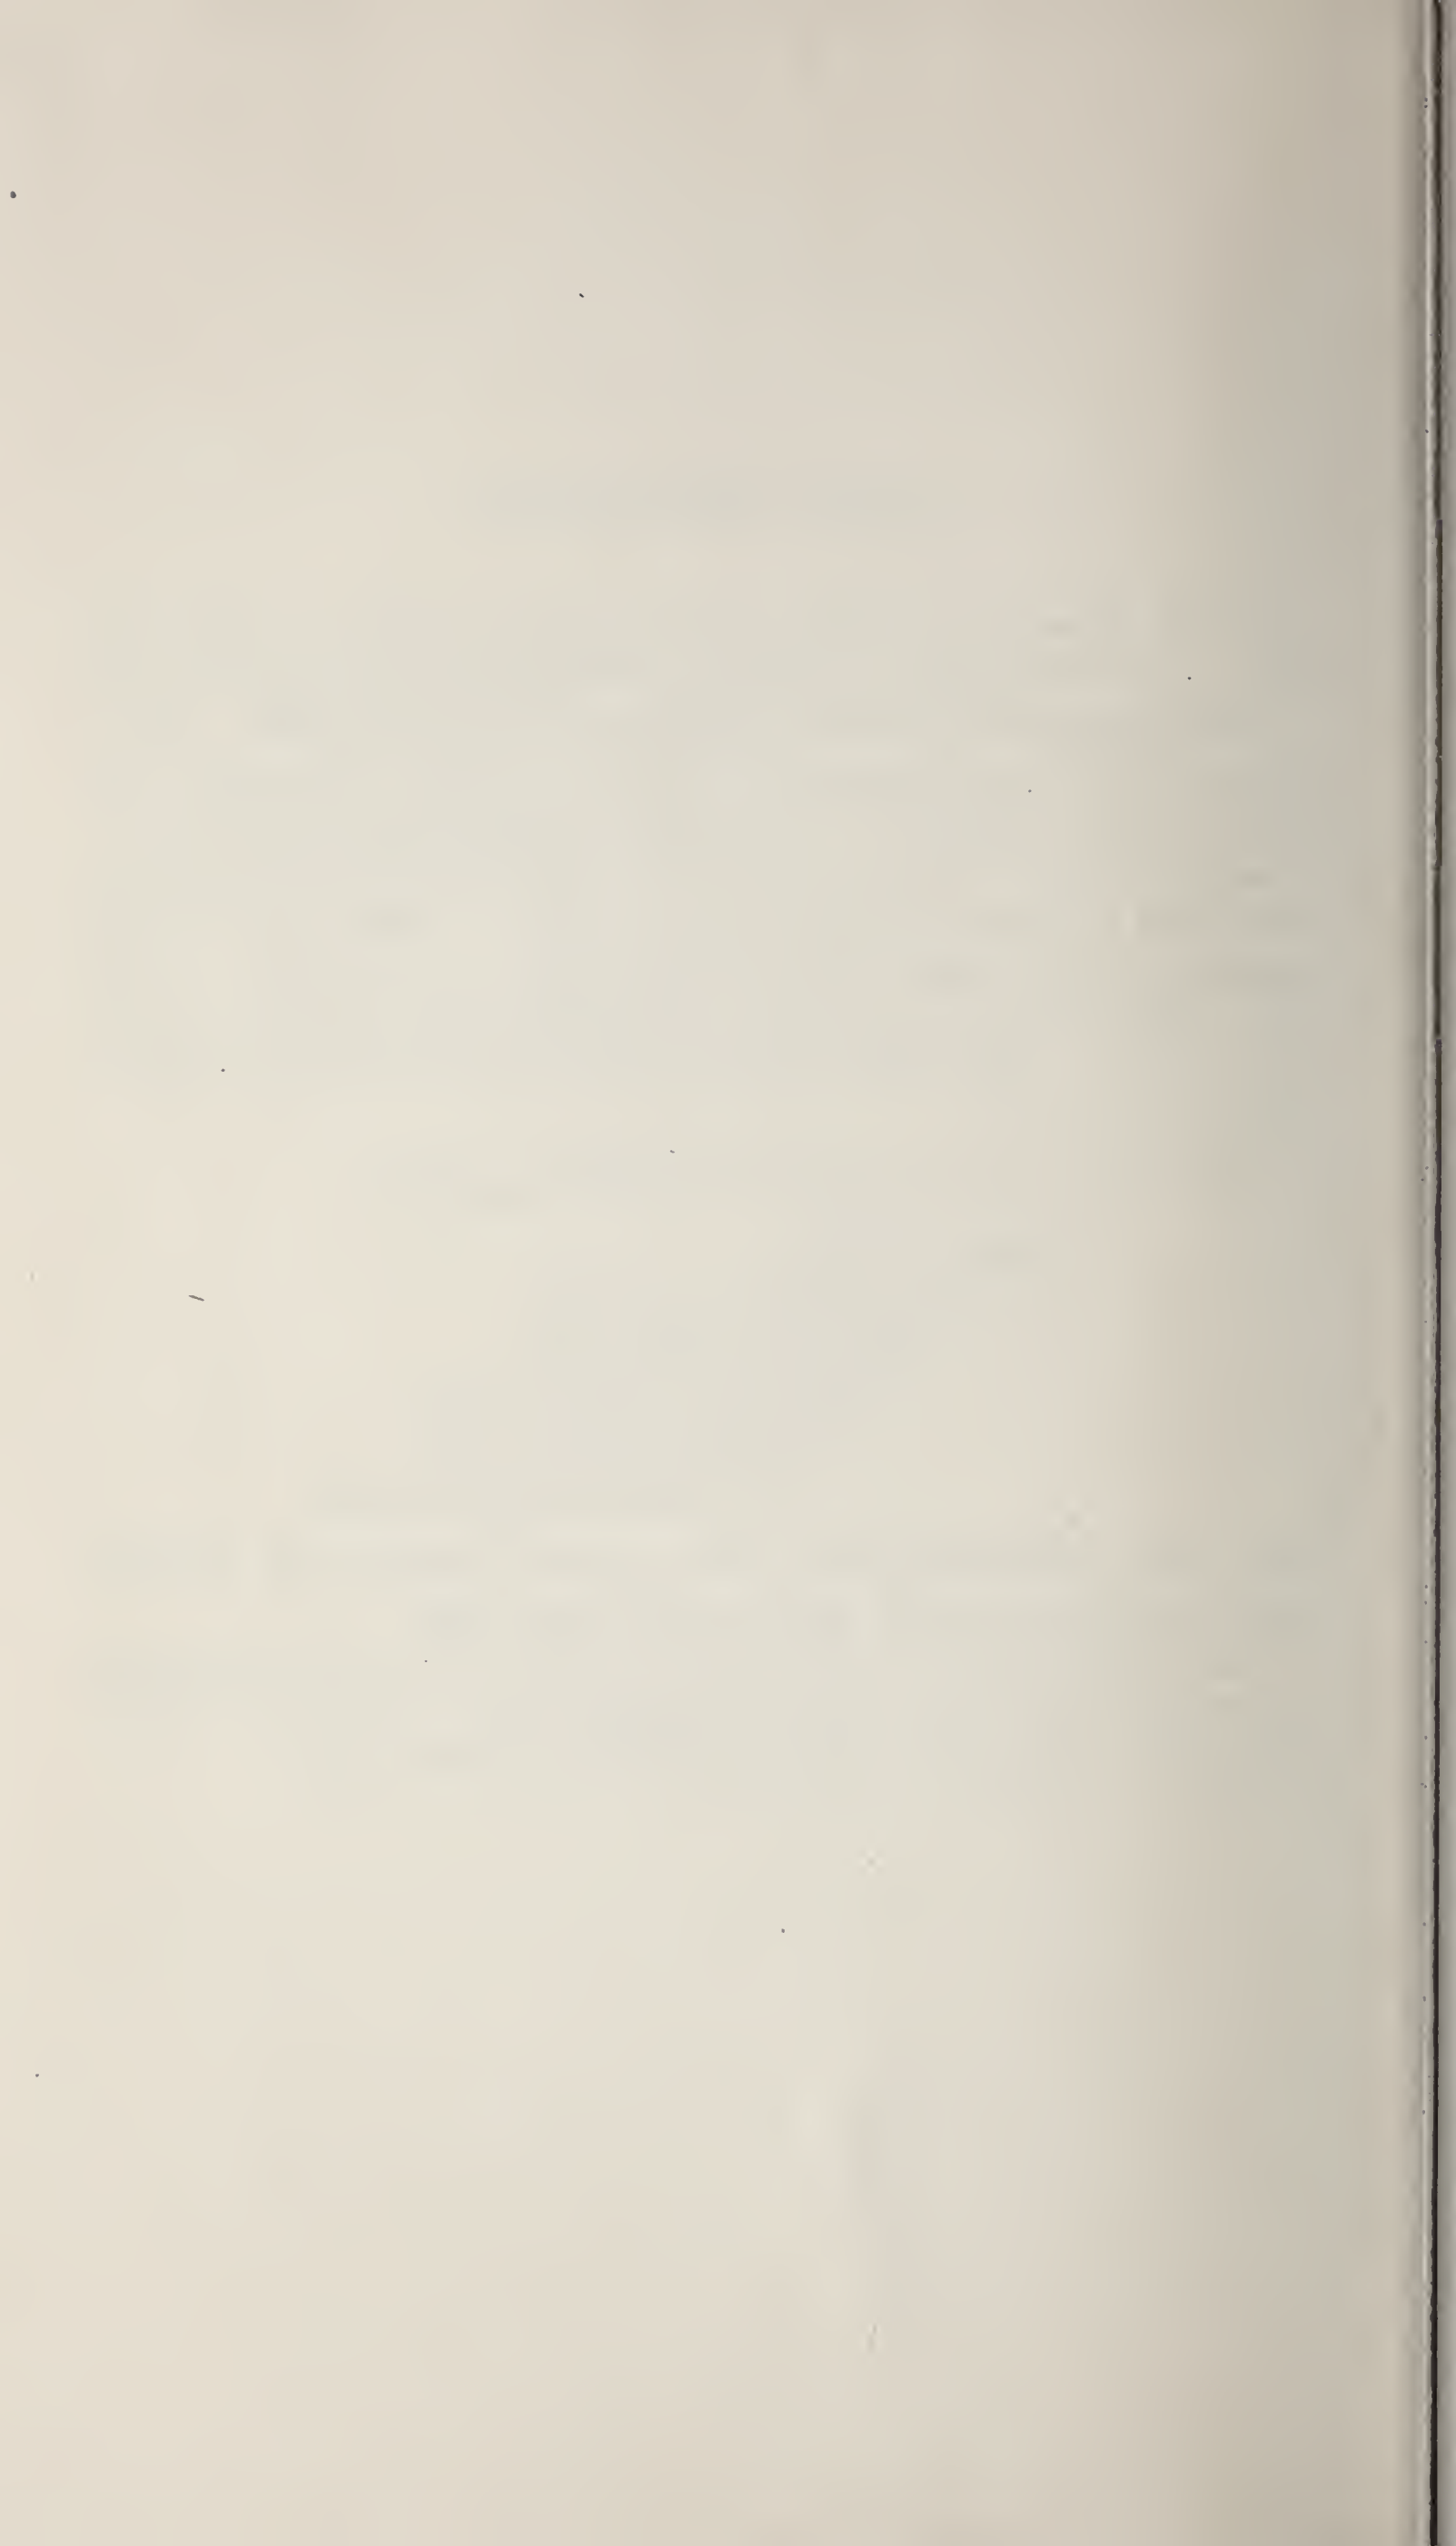

1. Raymond Thomas Cook

b. Donald Davies Cook

(a) David Jonathan Cook

After each individual Cook name you will find the date of birth, death, marriage, and the spouse's name and dates.

The children whose mother was a Cook will be found following the father's name and are listed according to age. If name has been changed by marriage it will appear with the married name.

BIBLE RECORDS

The Bible records, which follow, were the means of establishing data used in the early history and genealogy of the Cook family. All records are printed as they were written in each Bible.

The first group, which was written on a piece of stationery, lists the children of Andrew and Elizabeth Cook. It is believed to have been copied from the Bible belonging to Andrew Cook. The other groups were taken from the original family Bibles.

FAMILY NOTES

This is a story in connection with the history of the Cook family as told by Mrs. Rebecca Richardson, daughter of Mrs. Corrilla (Cook) Brice.

The story is how a young mother (name unknown), living alone with her two children in a cabin on the eastern fringe of the wilderness in Pennsylvania, became a member of the Cook family. Her husband was away on the frontier in military service against the Indians. One day in need of firewood, she left the younger child a baby in the cradle, took the older child a little boy about five years old by the hand, and walked over a hill to her nearest neighbor's home to engage an old man, too old for military service, to cut some firewood.

Returning alone with the little boy, she reached the top of the hill overlooking her home, and was horrified by the sight of smoke and flames coming from her cabin, caused by fire started by Indians whose presence she noted in the dooryard, from her distant vantage point.

Knowing how useless it would be even to think of returning to the cabin to try to save her other child, she turned and fled eastward with the little boy, in panic. Upon reaching a settlement, by which time she was in a delirious condition caused by fright and fatigue, she was given shelter. Awakening early the following morning, she found herself in a loft above a large lower room. Her attention was attracted by voices from below. Peering through the wide cracks in the loft flooring she was startled to see the people below sharpening long knives and speaking in a language she could not understand (possibly Dutch). Still being in a semi-delirious state of mind caused by the experiences of the previous day she became hysterical and attempted to flee from the house, believing that they meant to harm her.

With extreme difficulty, on account of their language being foreign to her, these good folks finally convinced her that the knives were for butchering purposes that morning, and she had nothing to fear.

This young woman made her home with these people and as the time went by, never hearing again from her husband, she later married a man from among this group by the name of Cook.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Matilda Cook, wife of Mr. Henry L. Cook, died at their residence, near Berret, on February 18th, 1889, and was buried at Brandenburg Church. The funeral sermon was preached by Rev. Wm. Crouse. The deceased was a daughter of Mr. Wm. Sellman, an active member of the M. P. Church, and esteemed by all who knew her. She leaves an infant son four weeks old, and seems to have had a premonition that she would die, as she frequently told her friends and physician so, notwithstanding their opinions to the contrary. She had been married about one year, and requested to be buried in her bride's costume, an impressive emblem of the fact that "in the midst of life we are in death." A few minutes before her death she looked anxiously at those around her, but, being unable to speak, could not communicate her wish; but, after several inquiries, was asked if she wished to see her babe, to which she nodded affirmatively. When the babe was brought and presented to her, with almost lifeless lips she smiled, and, kissing it, breathed her last farewell and died. The parting of this mother and her little cherub was an effecting scene, but "the ways of Providence are past finding out." "God breathed into its nostrils the breath of life and it became a living soul," immortality in embryo, to bud and to blossom in this life, and in the next to spread out in the full bloom of eternal glory.

(Their son, William H. Cook, served in World War I and died at Municipal Isolation Hospital, Southampton, England.)
